Quality and Quantity of Responses	Quality of responses and engagement with peers are distinctively beyond the requirements of this assignment.	Responses actively stimulate further discussion, building on peers' responses: for example, building a focused argument around a specific issue, raising new related questions, and supporting or challenging posts with support from personal experience, class materials, or related evidence. Posts meet the required number of responses.	Responses contribute to conversations through affirming statements, references to relevant research, class materials, or experience, and/or by asking related questions that extend the discussion. Posts meet the required number of responses.	Responses may acknowledge others' posts but fail to build on or challenge the discussion. Responses offer little interaction with peers' posts in the thread, and/or simply summarizes what others have said without adding to the discussion. Posts do not meet the required number of responses.
